I went upstairs to politely ask the neighbors to keep it down, as they were yelling/stomping/blasting music late at night and keeping my nephew(3) and niece(8) awake. I made sure to wait until after 12:00 AM to approach the neighbor. I began recording before I left the apartment because they are known to be confrontational, and proceeded to knock on the door. The neighbor waited to open the door, moved a young child out of the way, & proceeded to open the door. The woman (Kristen) immediately asked what I wanted and where I came from and her fiancé also came to the door asking where I came from. The male told me in my face, repeatedly, to "fuck off" and they continued to ask where I lived. Eventually the girlfriend came around the male and began to jump at me, at which time she pushed me back and I told her she would be going to jail for touching me. At that point she told me they "are the police", continued to jump at me, and was eventually pulled into the house by a black female. At that point, I decided to leave before anything else potentially happened. They then turned the music down and continued to stomp.

* the "male" being referred to is Brison Strickland
