They only did an ultrasound and said they couldn't find anything. I got referred to MSA for tomorrow to have MRI and some other scan to check the rest for a clot. They want me off my leg until I see them tomorrow so they gave me an excuse and a long list of meds that I won't take half of.

Went to the doc. That was pretty pointless. He pretty much refused to do the MRI that I was referred there for and gave me meds to take. He says he gonna treat it like a nerve issue for a few weeks and see what happens. I told him maybe I won't die in the mean time ♂

Everything will be ok. Time to move forward and put every effort into that. The past is where it needs to stay, behind you. I know sometimes it's hard to let go of certain things but there's always a positive to everything. Work hard and focus on what's ahead of you.

The one thing I do know is that you can call a deputy and they'll take all the information down and do a report on it just to have track of what's going on in case they take it any further. Don't get rid of the text messages and all other stuff they are sending you.

I don't have any cancer. All the test results came back negative. Praise the Lord.

The doctor said that she ran every blood test that could have possibly been ran and all the results were negative. She said that the lab work from yesterday was great as well.

She said that I needed to stay on a life long blood thinner because for some reason my blood forms clots and it would be a good precaution.
